Advanced Technology Video exhibiting at Electronic Security Expo June 14-15, 2017

Coppell, TX – May 18, 2017 – Advanced Technology Video (ATV), a leading provider of innovative video surveillance solutions, announces it will be exhibiting at the Electronic Security Expo \(ESX\) next month in Nashville, TN at the Music City Center. This conference and trade show is for electronic security and life safety dealers, integrators, and monitoring companies who are serious about growing their business and competing at the "Next Level".

ATV, in partnership with Dave Taylor and Company, will display their IP-based security management platform powered by Next Level Security Systems (NLSS), which integrates video management, access control, intrusion, video analytics and managed services into a single Gateway appliance. The NLSS unified products are fully integrated with ATV IP Cameras for seamless API programming and are employed in enterprise-class education, retail and government physical security installations across the globe.

The NLSS Gateway is a completely unique IP security solution that can be accessed through a Web browser. Data from all the various subsystems is automatically correlated into a sophisticated event management system, providing users with a comprehensive view of security operations. Video, access, intrusion, system health events and more can be linked to specific actions or automatically send email notifications. Because there is no software to install, the NLSS Gateway is a true browser-based solution that can be accessed from any Web enabled device.

"ATV is committed to providing our customers with options to the more traditional security system platform and continuing our tradition of offering ever-increasing value and flexibility for the Next-Level of product and service support," says Keith Shaver, Vice President of Sales and Marketing, ATV.
